

MAGRANIT® MATERIAL

Marmorin kitchen sinks are manufactured according to a technology that allows creating a composite of granite or quartz with synthetic resins and other suitable refining compounds. Such material is characterized by an uniform structure and unique durability. These are the features that our products are world-famous for. Such extraordinary results could only be achieved by using highest quality raw materials in a strict cooperation with their manufacturers. All of our products are provided with a Bio Cote® coating in order to increase the microbiological safety of our composites.
